THE OTTAWA FIRE

Judging by the accounts of the rapidity with which the fire swallowed up and overwhelmed the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, the Times yesterday came to the conclusion that it was of incendiary origin, and still believes that view. Mr. Glass, the member for Middlesex, who was in the reading room at the time and was the first to notice the first flames that he believed it was accidental. Most people know that paper burns slowly, especially if in compact bulk. But according to Mr. Glass, hardly a minute passed before the fire was burning like a torch. This looks as if some dynamite was giving impetus to the blaze. It is said that the Providence Journal warned the Washington authorities some weeks ago that an attempt would be made to burn the buildings at Ottawa. The strange thing is that the warning was never sent on to Ottawa, Chief Marshal of Ottawa, who believed that the fire was started by an Ottawa Cossack Sheriff, of the Dominion Police, declared that the fire was not accidental, but is making every effort to capture every suspect, one man having been arrested at Windsor heading for the United States. The firing of the Parliament buildings is just as a deed as the Germans would gladly commit, and nothing can be left undone to find out the cause of the fire, and the guilty parties, if any, punished.

While Parliament met yesterday in its temporary quarters the Victoria Memorial Museum, it was a chastened and saddened lot of men who faced the Speaker. They had to mourn the loss of one member and several officials as well as two lady visitors. Sir Robert and Sir Wilfrid both spoke, the latter being so overcome with emotion that he could not proceed. The Commons, whose座堂 building is nothing but a shell, investigations show that the damage is not so great as at first thought. The Library building has been preserved, it not being damaged very much. What effect the fire will have on the political situation is matter for conjecture, but it will likely draw the members more closely together, and perhaps hasten the end of the session.

THE WAR SITUATION.

A rather disquieting report comes from London to the effect that Lord Curzon and Sir Douglas Haig are to go on a special mission to King Albert of Belgium. Lord Curzon has already crossed to Flanders. What the object of the mission is has not been divulged. Fears are expressed that the Belgians may be trying of the war and of the German occupation of their country. But that is only conjecture. It would be unfortunate were the Belgian King looking for separate peace.

A report has been brought to this country that in the spring Lord Kitchener will take supreme command of the British forces in France and Flanders. We would not be surprised should this turn out to be true. His work of raising the British army must be about completed. What is left to be done could be easily carried out by others. The principal thing to be done in Britain is now the manufacture of munitions, and Lloyd George is looking after that work.

We do not anticipate that there will be more than a paper war between the United States and Germany over the sinking of the Lusitania. At the most, diplomatic relations might be severed. Even that would be a calamity for the allies, for then there would be no look out for their interests in Germany and Austria. Anything that Spain might do as their representative would be of little avail.

The attack on Salonic has not yet materialized, and every day's delay should be to the advantage of the allies. Big gun activity on the western front has marked this week. Rumors are rife that Germany is rushing big guns and munitions and men to this front with a view to make a dash to the coast. Sir Douglas ought to be pretty well prepared for them.

It is just possible that there may be more than one German raid on the high seas, and the British fleet may take some time before they are all rounded up. But it is only a question of time.

Days the Financial Post of Canada: "Sir Robert Borden's personal honor is not questioned. But those who show honesty of purpose and good workmanship on Government contracts, above the gratification of personal ambitions and the political ambitions of their contractors, look to him to guarantee that the false expression and to prevent the suppression of the truth." Let the investigation go on.

EDITORIAL NOTES:

For men only—Savvy to-morrow evening.

Join either the 12th or the 17th, and join one of them.

Lieut. Berg, who stole the Appam, will have difficulty in disposing of the stolen goods.

The next business will be the capture of the raider that captured the Appam.

Fish day for Canada has been fixed for Sunday recruiting meetings.

He does not object, we understand, to the holding of these meetings.

But he would be better pleased if they were held on week days.

But he is afraid that they would please too much of the nature of entertainments, instead of being solemn occasions, when God's hand should be recognized in this war and when prayer and supplication should form along with appeals for recruits, the chief proceedings of these meetings.

We agree with the Archdeacon that this war should turn our minds to spiritual things, and we also believe that it is only by God's blessing that we can win this war. As Sir Edward Whitehead said, "We must be good to God and to our men."

RECRUITING MEETINGS.

Archdeacon Forster has a letter in another column in this issue in reference to Sunday recruiting meetings. He does not object, we understand, to the holding of these meetings. He says, "I will be better pleased if they were held on week days. But he is afraid that they would please too much of the nature of entertainments, instead of being solemn occasions, when God's hand should be recognized in this war and when prayer and supplication should form along with appeals for recruits, the chief proceedings of these meetings. As Sir Edward Whitehead said, "We must be good to God and to our men."

SHADE TREE BUTCHERY.

Mr. Robert Black, secretary to the Canadian Forestry Association, Ottawa, has published a statement regarding the rights of the public in regard to shade trees, etc. In which he says that for years the people of Ontario have permitted themselves to be victimized by all sorts of specious claims regarding the rights of telephone and telephone linesmen, building contractors and others to destroy or mutilate shade trees.

As a matter of Ontario law, there is one other than a special dispensation that gives the right to remove a tree from private or public property on forty-eight hours notice, but the owner cannot be compensated for planting and protecting the tree. No live tree, unless within thirty feet of other trees, may be removed without the permission of the owner or municipality. A few legal cases such as have recently occurred in the United States would impress this fact once and for all time upon the tree owners of Ontario. Only a few months ago a contractor was obliged by the American court to pay nine hundred dollars for cutting down two trees. The chief flaw in our system of protection is that we have very few skilled tree inspectors in municipal employ, so that municipalities are themselves responsible for a great deal of the everyday butchery.

The Ontario statutes give a municipal officer delegated by the city or town the right to remove a tree from private or public property on forty-eight hours notice, but the owner cannot be compensated for planting and protecting the tree. No live tree, unless within thirty feet of other trees, may be removed without the permission of the owner or municipality. Any person destroying or injuring (even tearing a horse to) a street tree is liable to a fine not to exceed $50 and costs or imprisonment for not more than three days, half of the fine to go to the informant. The "rights" of telephone and telephone linesmen to butcher trees is a fiction. They have no rights whatever over any tree of public or private property. This association submitted several questions to the Attorney-General who replied:

"I think it is quite clear that the owners have the right to prevent a telephone company from stringing its wires in a tree planted by him on the street, because under section 16 of the Ontario Act of 1890, 'any tree or shrub in a park or land adjacent to or belonging to a dwelling house or to an extent exceeding five dollars.'

"It was expressly enacted by 4 Wm. IV, c. 11, section 16, that 'any tree or shrub in a park or land adjacent to or belonging to a dwelling house or to an extent exceeding five dollars.'

"It was expressly enacted by 4 Wm. IV, c. 11, section 16, that 'any tree or shrub in a park or land adjacent to or belonging to a dwelling house or to an extent exceeding five dollars.'

Mason & Risch Pianos

"FROM FACTORY TO HOME"

TWENTY BRANCH STORES

HEAD OFFICE & FACTORY TORONTO

Through the changes which have marked the half-a-century of the history of Mason & Risch, one thing has remained the same—the determination to make the Mason & Risch Piano the literal expression of the piano in plane value.

Write for our latest Booklet, "Inside Information." It kills the delusion that "one piano is like another." It reveals the true and lasting value of the Mason & Risch, it tells why the Piano of our make stands up through the most strenuous use through years and years.

BREEDERS OF SWINE ARE IN CONVENTION

Dominion Association Considers Reforms Needed, and Elects Their Officers.

THE SECTIONS

Berkshire and Yorkshire Clubs Also in Session—J. I. Flatt Director.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—At the Dominion Swine Breeders' Association annual meeting at the Carle-Rite yesterday it was proposed by Mr. H. M. Vanderlip, president of the Ontario Berkshire Club, that the Executive Committee of the Dominion Association be authorized to immediately negotiate with American Record Associations with a view to having Canadian registrations recognized.

The proposal was carried, and it was said that a bacon type hog is what is most wanted in Canada, not a lard hog, though he admitted that the bacon hog, which is not identical with the bacon type, is also of value in this country.

It was moved, and the motion was carried, that all breeds of swine be recognized, and that the breeds of the Guelph and Ottawa Winter Fairs, and of Ottawa Fall Fair. The provision of separate classes for "Duroc Jersey" hogs was voted down.

The motion was carried to have the Toronto and London Fair Boards.

On motion it was agreed that the time of the annual meeting this year be arranged for the provision of better facilities for cold storage in the interest of western live stock breeders.

A motion was carried to have live stock breeders, the clause in which is that of greatest interest being the one covering the election of representatives of the provinces.

The motion was carried, and was accepted in the different provinces, that bacon hogs be the swine breeders.

The directors' report shows that there were 9,961 registrations of swine made in 1915, a decided falling off from the total of 11,000 in 1914.

Ontario registered the greatest number of any of the provinces, with Quebec second and Alberta third.

Others were elected as follows:

President, J. C. Stuart, Osgoode Station;

vice-president, P. J. McEvitt, Wingham;

Vice-president, J. C. Jones, Mount Elgin, Ont.;

Secretary, H. M. Vanderlip, Wright, Glanworth, Ont.;

Treasurer, G. E. Day, O.A.C.;

D. Brian, Ridgeview.

Y. M. C. A. WORK

For Men Who Are Fighting the Empire's Battles

Believing that the home influence is always for the best, an effort is being made "to keep the home fires burning" by providing facilities for letter-writing. Free stationery, ink and pens are furnished, and stamps kept on hand for those needing them.

The association offers amusement for the men by keeping a supply of magazines, games, novels, books, puzzles and all kinds of healthful sport. Concerts are arranged when possible and informal sing-alongs planned. These are all done in an effort to keep the young soldier true to his home standards of Christian life.

Religious meetings are held, and an effort is made of recreational value is by personal contact and conversation. The association offers "a utility man" doing whatever can be done to help those who are happy, giving advice and encouragement, instructing in French, or helping out with a mathematical problem. He helps in any way he can, except to keep doing his part in making the soldiers as efficient as possible.

The local representative has reason to thank many citizens of Hamilton for their kindness and generosity in furnishing the recruits' room, pictures, writing materials, books, magazines, newspapers and in rendering assistance in many other ways.

THE 129th

Machine Gun Detachment is Being Organized at Dundas.

From day to day the 129th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, increases in strength, and the various organizations in connection therewith are in process of formation. Notable amongst these is the machine gun detachment, which is now forming under the personal command of Major Col. J. J. Grafton. This detachment, whilst being a part of the 129th Battalion, is widely different as regards its organization. The members of the unit joining this detachment will receive special training and instruction for the work, and will be attached to the headquarters of the 129th, though billeted in their homes. It is expected that the detachment will be up to strength in ten days, the total number of men being 100, in the neighborhood of forty. Training will then commence, and those enlisting early will be given the first chance to qualify for the C. O. rank of detachment. Men who wish to join should apply to the recruiting office at the Arctic Building, stating that they are enlisting in the Machine Gun detachment, or to Lieut.-Col. Grafton. Application may also be made to Lieut. Shearer, 129th Battalion, Dundas, and also, any evening to 10 o'clock.

Now many times has an ill-tempered person been soothed and calmed by a rough diamond sans a setting. "His manners are bad, but he has a good heart," they say of him.

When you meet him he is almost unconscious in his greeting, boorish in his manner, but when you look at him charitably—he is a rough diamond. He knows that one is a diamond heart—compensates for a great deal—but that is another story.

Whether we come from aristocratic lineage or not, we can be aristocrats with our manners when we cultivate gentle voices and gentle-women's manners. It serves them well, and how much more considerate we are.

Around & around you can find almost every type of girl, from the refined to the gaudy, from the girl who can't stand upright to the girl who can't stand upright.

I was very busy at the time, so I did not make any effort to make myself attractive. I wanted a job in the movies and I want it bad. If you're the right sort, you're going to have it. If you're not, then good-bye.

WHEN THE BAIRNIES CUDDLE DOON

BY ELSPETH

THE JOY OF BEING ALIVE AND WELL

Restored to Health by "Pronto-Alive".

The Famous Fruit Marmalade.

I went an' joined the army an' done my little bit. That's the last I put in my kit. I keeps 'em in my kit. I ain't a proper soft nose, just the off on the sky; the only one what gave me, but I guess I might. Yes, I've card-a-many of 'em passing by.

Passing by! Passing by! Wiv a little wifin' sigh. Nearly got some that time, Sonny, just a little bit too high. Or there's a little Jack, look out there! Keep your head down, mind yer eyes. But the young one's all behind yer 'fore you see 'em passing by.

Yes, I lay high Tuesday mornin' in the Sunday afternoon. 'Ere we were, we took their tremors to me. It woke me from a swoon. I was shakin' an' nearly mad at th' start, 'm'en fit to cry. I cheered 'em as they tramped on me carous, passing by. But I card 'em passing by.

Then they gathered us together an' then the world was. What they called the "stretch case" an' they tended to us first. They was overworked and crowded, 'en the wall. They had to be carried. How could that one also—speakin' softly, passing by, God! they watched 'em, silent, suffrin', watchin' Hops-a-passin' by.

Passing by! Passing by! Just to keep that fag on high. An' all the time we stood for in the days that's now gone by! An' when they pass before, I'm sure I'll listen to their cry. An' I'll treat 'em very gentle, an' forgive 'em, too. Bomber R. Bumpus, London star.

These lines (in part) by Bomber Bumpus, a member of the Australian contingent, who was wounded in Gallipoli, and after returning, to the front was invalided back to hospital in Cairo, speak of the indignation he had to suffer for the sake of "all that is right in the days that now gone by". The high quality of the verse now written on war topics makes it a wise and sound advice to every poet who writes patriotic albums. It would make fine reading for the coming generation, besides more effectively sustaining present enthusiasm.

Now that the Astor millions have had received recognition—not but that they produced some good—God has turned his eyes less interested in Baron Astor's Never castle. It is only twenty-eight miles from the Kentish town of A. come to the venerable inn, the "Henry VIII," with plaster walls framed by oak beams, a post office, and near them a stone church. The town was built on the hill top. This is Herefordshire. Below the towers of Hereford castle, the church stands from the days of King Edward the Confessor, like that of any other, has deprived it of many interesting antiquities which it formerly possessed.

Let us start with the "Henry VIII," the father of Anne and the grandfather of Queen Elizabeth. One must cross the taken drawbridge, suspended as of old in its hanging chains. The ivy which once covered the castle has been removed, and the rough beauty of the tower. Here is the first portico, its heavy oaken gates studded with rusty bolts, with which it is impregnable to children intruder, and travelling between upright grooves in which the antique chains still suspend.

Then a short distance away the castle which very spot once stood Cardinal Wolsey, Archbishop Cranmer, Rockford and his sister Anne, Queen and Wife, and the last Queen of England, Mary Tudor, who, when she was born, went to court to Anne, with her richly-cared four-post bedstead. Other objects of interest are the stone dungeon, the place of torture which the very purpose of which is now forgotten. The outlook from the parapet is wonderfully interesting. Artillery, a gun, a sword, a halberd, a halberd, a halberd in the wood rooms a herd of capped deer, and you're in the very site of Anne Boleyn's garden. The spirit of the old, old, old spirit still haunts Hover, and has often been seen at night, standing where the faintless King first met her, and where the Queen was born.

One afternoon she became engaged in conversation with a prominent woman. "Are you familiar with the Norwegian saga, Mrs. Eddy?" queried the woman. "Indeed, no; the least bit!" replied Mrs. Eddy hastily. "I always make the servants know their places." For Mrs. Mulligatawny had always thought the same as Mrs. M."

Those Impudent Sages!

Mrs. Eddy had suddenly become weary, though the rest of her old age had brought her into close society. She endeavored to create the impression that her new home of New Haven was congenial to her.

Mrs. Eddy had suddenly become weary, though the rest of her old age had brought her into close society. She endeavored to create the impression that her new home of New Haven was congenial to her.

One afternoon she became engaged in conversation with a prominent woman.

"Are you familiar with the Norwegian saga, Mrs. Eddy?" queried the woman.

"Indeed, no; the least bit!" replied Mrs. Eddy hastily. "I always make the servants know their places."
